“What lies behind us and what lies before us are tiny matters compared to what lies within us.”
-Ralph Waldo Emerson

Dear Parents / Guardians,

The new session brings with it a gentle mix of hope and hesitation. New books are opened, fresh pages await, and with them comes the question—where do I begin? This is where opportunity lingers as a quiet invitation: the opportunity to begin again, but a little wiser than before.

A young gardener once planted seeds and, day after day, saw no change. Disheartened, he almost gave up—until one morning, tiny green shoots appeared. Growth, he realised, had been happening all along, just beneath the surface.

Our students stand at a similar threshold today. The May Pen & Paper Examinations are the first tender shoots of effort, discipline, and understanding taking shape. They are a beginning: a chance for our young scholars to set new goals, build steady habits, and take ownership of their learning journey with your continued support and guidance.

Dear Students,

The human brain is like a continent, created to be explored and populated by ideas, so that the journey of life is made worthwhile.

To make the most of the crucial time you have to develop your intellectual abilities, it is imperative that you realize the importance of today. It is the only day of its kind that shall never dawn again. Start each day with definiteness of purpose. Utilise the hours of the day at your command. Map your day to use it purposefully, and see how time favours you, helping you craft a fulfilling tomorrow.

As you prepare for the upcoming exams, remember that you do not need to conquer everything at once; you only need to begin. Each answer written and each concept revised becomes part of your journey towards your goal. Confucius wisely said, “It does not matter how slowly you go as long as you do not stop.” After all, every great journey begins not with a leap, but with a single, meaningful step.

With that thought and a renewed sense of optimism, kindly go through the date sheet for the upcoming May Pen & Paper Examinations.
